DR. STEPHEN WISE'S SERMON ON JESUS

BY HERBERT J. SAMUEL

An hysterical meeting of a body of rabbis passing hectic resolutions on the strength of newspaper reports is not an edifying spectacle. It must be admitted that Rabbi Stephen Wise's reported remarks on the Jewish attitude to Jesus were bound to arouse a storm. But one cannot help feeling that the Agudas Horabbonim of America has made a very regrettable exhibition. The Agudah is a body of men claiming strict adherence to orthodox Jewish teaching and practice. As individuals, they act in many ways in a judicial capacity. They are the exponents of a law that is just and merciful, of which an important principle is "Heveh don es kol ho-odom lechaf zechus"—judge every man in the scale of merit. Their condemnation, therefore, of a man without investigation, without calm deliberation, without opportunity for defence and explanation, is not in the true spirit of Jewish tradition. Anyone caring for the fair name of Judaism must feel pained at so undignified, so unrabbinical, a demonstration. True Judaism has no room for that type of attitude. The manner of the orthodox rabbis' condemnation of Dr. Wise is a condemnation of themselves.

No matter how much we may differ from the views, as reported, of Dr. Wise, we cannot forget his great services to his people, his fearless championship of the Jewish cause on all occasions, his courageously outspoken rebuking of Americans for their injustices, his powerful pleading and energetic activity for Zionism, his efforts for the endowment of Jewish scholarship, his unsurpassed gift for leadership. Is all recollection of this to be swept aside in one moment of disagreement with his views on a particular question? Do not friendship and gratitude demand a charitable attitude, especially when the friend is in the wrong?

But we challenge the action of the Agudas Horabbonim on another score. Dr. Wise is well within the proper sphere of the Jewish pulpit in dealing with a book such as Klausner's "Jesus of Nazareth." Dr. Klausner's work, the result of a lifetime's painstaking research and study, must inevitably receive the attention of the Jewish pulpit. It is an important contribution to a great subject, and will have to be taken into account. The Agudas Horabbonim of America has no authority or power to create an Index of Prohibited Books. It cannot place restrictions upon honest study and sincere discussion. It cannot muzzle Jewish thought. But it has the right to demand of religious leaders responsible for directing the thought and conduct of Jewish congregations, that they should be careful of their words. We cannot agree with Dr. Wise's attitude towards the New Testament, as reported, though let it be confessed that it is unfair to attempt to form an opinion of a man's attitude from a brief sentence or two, torn from its context in the interests of a sensational press. Before Dr. Wise is judged, let us have for calm study a full and reasoned statement of his views.

TOLERANCE IN JEWISH CIRCLES

BY FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN

For centuries we Jews have been the victims of intolerance and persecution. More than any other people have we suffered from mob passions and hysteria. We have asked the Christian world for understanding and appreciation for our point of view. We should, therefore, know and appreciate the value of tolerance, and should be the last to pillory on the basis of hearsay and rumor men who for years have served the Jewish community and served it well. But some weeks ago our Montreal contemporary in a column which was intended to be humorous, but which reeked with bigotry that would have been backward even in darkest medievalism, launched an attack on two liberal rabbis in Canada, an attack which was venomous, petty and un-Jewish. We recognize that there may be valid objections to the stand taken by liberal Judaism. We know that there are many who do not accept its principles. We honour their point of view though we do not share it. We want argument to be met by argument. We welcome an attack on principles. Principles can defend themselves, and time will vindicate them, but we deplore any attack on personalities.

We are still stunned by the brutal and fierce attacks, that have been made on Rabbi Stephen S. Wise because of a sermon preached last week in Carnegie Hall, in which he declared that Jesus was a great ethical and moral teacher. Except for those who deny the historicity of Jesus, and their number is decreasing, there are few students of history, whether Christians or non-Christians, who will deny that Jesus has been one of the most striking and powerful influences in the growth of Occidental civilization. Furthermore, that Jesus was a Jew no one will deny, except a few Nordic fanatics who are attempting to prove that he was a Nordic. That Jesus lived among Jews all his life, that most of his friends and followers were Jews, that the men who carried his influence to Europe were Jews, too, cannot be gainsaid. That the things Jesus taught, the ideals of humility, of peace, of charity, of mercy, of spirituality were Jewish ideals which Jesus learned from his Jewish teachers and his Jewish environment cannot be contradicted. In fact, one of the contributions of the Jew to civilization is the personality of Jesus. The ethical and moral platform of the early Christian church was founded squarely on the ideals of the prophets of Israel. If Jesus had not been deified, if pagan myth and legend had not woven themselves about his name, if Oriental mysteries and neo-Platonic speculation had not transformed his personality, it is quite possible that he would have held a high place in the ranks of Israel's ethical and moral teachers.

The liberal Jew recognizes Jesus as an ethical teacher, a logical product of the prophetic traditions in Israel. As Isaac M. Wise, the founder of Reform in the U.S., said: "Only Israel could produce Jesus." The liberal Jew knows that through the personality of

ARCHAEOLOGICAL DISCOVERY NEAR JAFFA

A mausoleum of the Middle Bronze period, about the sixteenth century before the present era, has been found at Nebi Ruben, south of Jaffa. It consists of a hall, reached by a flight of stairs, two chambers and a niche. The door was blocked by four great hewn stones. A great number of objects have been found, including an alabaster jar, with markings, probably Egyptian hieratic, other large jars of Egyptian type, and a number of small bowls. Some of these, including the desiccated remains of the contents of the jars, was sent to Jerusalem for chemical examination. The objects themselves have been sent to Jaffa, where they will form the nucleus of a local museum. The excavations have been made by Dr. L. A. Mayer, of the Department of Antiquities.

MINISTER KLEBERSBERG CHALLENGES JEWISH DEPUTY

The attempt of the League of Nations to make peace between the Jews and Magyars of Hungary has resulted in the Minister of Education, Hugo Klebersberg, challenging a Jewish Deputy, Paul Sandor, to a duel.

The League Council at its recent session accepted the Hungarian Government's report that the "Numerus Clausus Law," under which the universities permit only six per cent. of the student body to be Jewish, was necessary as a post-war measure, but recommended its abolition in the near future.

Herr Klebersberg, returning to Hungary, told Parliament the law could not be abolished, as it would cause social explosions, whereupon the Fascisti asserted that abolition would be answered by a Fascist distatorship. The bad blood reached the boiling point when Herr Sandor, answering an insinuation that the Jews were friendly to the Bolshevists during the Bela Kun regime, said Herr Klebersberg took safe refuge outside the country while hundreds of the Jewish bourgeoisie sat in jail. Herr Klebersberg thereupon challenged Herr Sandor to a duel.

HEINRICH HEINE'S GRAVE CARED FOR BY GERMANY

Heinrich Heine, the poet, who was too liberal to be recognized by Imperial Germany, now in his grave, has been adopted by the German Republic, says a special despatch from Berlin to the Public Ledger.

For many years Heine's grave in Paris, where he lived in exile, was maintained privately by the Frankfurter Zeitung, but during the inflation period the paper was obliged to stop its regular payments to the Montmartre cemetery. Thereafter a Paris undertaker's firm cared for the poet's grave, but now the German Foreign Office has remunerated the firm for its services and hereafter will take care of the grave.

DISTRESS OF JEWS IN DAMASCUS

Since the bombardment of Damascus by French air forces, when several Jewish lives were lost and many were injured, the Jews have suffered from repeated attacks on the part of the insurgents. It seems that the Jews are made the target of both contending parties. The French have imposed a heavy tribute on the Jews of Damascus, and the Druses also consider them as their enemies and take every opportunity to harass them. The French garrison of 3,000 stationed in Damascus is apparently unable to protect the Jews from the Druse rebels and from bandits that have been infesting the town. The economic life of the city is practically at a standstill and the Jews are the greatest sufferers as a result. The Hadassah Medical Unit of Palestine has issued orders to its officers on the northern border of Palestine to treat all refugee sick from Syria in their hospitals, without regard to creed or nationality.

The propaganda carried on by some of the rebels with a view of attracting the other nationalities in the neighborhood to form a federated Arab state, which should include Palestine, Lebanon, Mesopotamia and Transjordania has apparently not attracted many followers among the Arabs of Palestine. Lord Plumer is certain that there will be no uprising in Palestine and the same sentiment was expressed also by Mr. Amery in the House of Commons in reply to an inquiry by one of the members.

"LEAGUE OF GENTILES"

A new organization was formed in South Africa by the name of "League of Gentiles," with the object of "casting out socially, industrially and economically the Jewish element which is too prominent to-day. Wealth among the Jews is the real danger point to the future prosperity of the Gentiles."

The headquarters of the society are in Johannesburg and it is said that its membership already exceeds the ten thousand mark. They have secret signs and codes after the fashion of the American Ku Klux Klan.

ANTISEMITISM IN RUMANIA UNABATED

Several incidents occurring in Rumania recently indicate that the anti-Semitic agitation which has been conducted recently by Professor Cuza and his followers has had its effect not only on the student body, the main source of all trouble in that land, but also on the government officials. The old pre-war subterfuge prevailing in Rumania, by which Jews have been excluded from many walks of life under the guise that they were classed as "aliens," against whom the laws were directed, has been revived in a somewhat different form. A new bill that was introduced by the Minister of Finance, provides that concessions for the sale of different kinds of beverages should be entrusted only to "sound Rumanians," an expression that is strongly reminiscent of the older phrase "Rumanian citizens." If this interpretation should be given to the new law, it is estimated that 20,000 Jewish families will be left without any means of subsistence through it.

The trial of Lieutenant Mororescu, which continued for several weeks and resulted in the liberation of the officer and his accomplices brought much unrest among the Jews. Mororescu was charged with wanton killing of Jewish refugees who tried to cross the Rumanian border. His superior, General Popovici, was expelled from the army at the time, about two years ago, but the charges against Mororescu included the shooting of 200 persons by himself or his subordinates. These murders were admitted by the defendants, but they claimed that they acted on orders from their supreior officers. While it was shown that Mororescu was guilty of many cruelties and of bribes, he was set free by the tribunal before which he was tried.

The Jews in Rumania are much worried about the growing popularity of Professor Cuza and especially since the government is taking no steps to prevent the extensive anti-Jewish agitation which he has been conducting throughout the land. It was even rumored that Cuza was aspiring to a high post in the government and it is likely that he may attain his goal if the present propaganda continues unchecked. There were riotious demonstrations in Bucharest by the student bodies and many Jewish students were hurt with the result that the government had to close all the higher schools in the capital until order could be restored. A delegation of Jews who called on the Minister of Education, Angelescu, with a view of inducing the government to stop the police interference with the cultural institutions maintained by Jews and also of obtaining government sanction for the use of Yiddish and Hebrew in private schools, received a very cold response. Angelescu told the deputation that the Jews of Rumania themselves did not want to have Yiddish perpetuated among them. He emphasized the point that the Jews in Rumania were not a national but a religious minority and that they should use the language of the land in their schools and also in their private intercourse.

The recurrent disturbances caused by anti-Semitic students in Rumania was the subject of discussion of a meeting recently held in Paris, under the auspices of the League of Human Rights. Several speakers took occasion to denounce the agitation conducted against the Jews by the anti-Semitic leaders. The president of the Rumanian League for Human Rights, Mr. M. Castpore, a man of advanced age, was brutally handled by a gang of students at the railroad depot at Kausenberg. The aged man has been taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Mr. Justice Gad Frumkin, of the Palestine Supreme Court, is now visiting England, where he will stay for five weeks.

It is reported that the Vienna Jewish Seminary is forced to offer for sale a most valuable collection of 400 manuscripts pertaining to Jewish history and literature in the Middle Ages.

EDITOR, CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW:

Recently there appeared in your valuable columns, a letter from a Mr. Morris, a Jewish war veteran of the South African and the late war, urging me to summon a meeting of all Jewish war veterans in Toronto.

The sentiments expressed by Mr. Morris in his letter are shared by the writer and the delay in calling such meeting was necessitated by existing circumstances. I received recently a visit from a well known officer of the Jewish War Veterans, of New York City, who also urged me to call such meeting in order to consider a plan for raising a sum of money as a contribution to the establishment of a Conservatory of Music in the Hebrew University at Jerusalem, as a fitting memorial to all the Jewish soldiers who fell in the last Great War.

The Jewish veterans of Montreal have raised a sum for such fund. At the head of the movement for the establishment of such institution are some of the leading Jewish artists in the United States and Canada. Every nation in the world which participated in the war had erected monuments or memorials to its dead, and it surely is becoming and proper that the Jewish people should do likewise in its re-established homeland. This will be its first monument to Israel's dead in the last two thousand years.

I have also received a communication from S. L. Debalta, of New York, that Vladimir Jabotinski, organizer of the Zion Mule Corps and prime advocate of the Jewish Legion, and known as the Jewish D'Annunzio, will visit our city, February 11 next, to deliver a lecture on the present European situation. Mr. Jabotinski is very anxious to meet the men who served under him in Palestine and the Gallipoli Peninsula, of whom there are a goodly number in this city.

There are also a number of problems affecting the Jewish community which can be dealt with by Jewish veterans more effectively than by any other body in this city. As president of such organization, I am calling a meeting of all the Jewish veterans in Toronto, whether they be members of the organization or not, for the purpose of discussing Toronto's contribution to the Conservatory of Music Fund, and also to arrange for proper reception to Lieutenant Jabotinski on his expected visit. The meeting will be held at the Zionist Institute, Sunday, January 3, at 4 p.m.

BLOOD ACCUSATION IN LITHUANIA

An unusual case of a blood libel came up recently in a small town, Linkov, Lithuania. A Jewish girl, six years of age, Liba Cohen, testified that she had witnessed how her father and other Jews of the town killed a Christian girl and used her blood for Passover. This confession created much excitement in the vicinity and the Jews were in constant panic of pogroms by the peasants of the neighbouring villages. It became known later that the child was mentally unbalanced and that she was instructed to give that testimony at the instance of her Christian teachers who threatened to throw her in a well if she did not tell the story to the authorities. The police investigated the matter and an attorney was brought from the larger city to probe the case for the State. The rabbi of the town was called for an examination, but the Christian teachers in the school which the child attended were not disturbed. Fortunately no Christian girl had been lost during the past year and the servant girl in the Cohen home, herself a Christian, who had been with the family for more than two years, declared that the child Liba is a neurotic and that no weight should be placed on her words. The Jewish population of the district is much alarmed at the incident, especially on account of the rumors of pogroms that became prevalent immediately after the story became known.

According to statistical figures made public by the Jewish section of the Soviet republics the Jewish population of Russia numbers now 2,750,000 of whom 300,000 are organized union members.

On the occasion of the celebration of his seventy-fifth anniversary, Bernard Baron distributed 50,000 pounds sterling among various charitable organizations, including also a number of English Jewish charities.

every friday

A fitting and necessary New Year's message to American Jewry might be: Contain yourselves. Don't condemn Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, leader of thought among you, on the strength of sensation-making newspaper reports.

The head-line writers tried to give the gist of his whole sermon on Jesus in the same way that "the wish is often father to the thought." Many Jewish papers, to their shame, are trying in the same way to make capital of what, unfortunately, for their sake, Dr. Wise did not say.

There was nothing brand-new in Dr. Wise's sermon to stir people who will take the time to examine it. Other rabbis, among them, Dr. Alexander Lyons of Brooklyn, N.Y., have been saying, for some years, that Jesus should be regarded by the Jews as one of their prophets, and his teachings as of value to the Jewish people. None of them have ever claimed divinity for Jesus and Dr. Wise, in his storm-arousing sermon, denies unequivocally the divinity of Jesus.

It happens that his son, James Waterman Wise, is the author of a book, "Liberalizing Liberal Judaism," in which the writer, two years ago, called upon Liberal Jews to revaluate the teachings of Jesus, the man, and avail themselves of these teachings as an aid to living according to the highest ideals.

What Dr. Wise did in his sermon was to sum up the view in the book, "Jesus of Nazareth," written in Hebrew by Dr. Joseph Klausner, a teacher of the Hebrew University, and translated into English by Canon Danby of St. George's Cathedral. This view, with which Dr. Wise agrees, is: "Jesus existed, a man, a Jew, not a Christian."

Dr. Wise went on to say that the failures of Christendom and its treatment of the Jew must not be charged to the teachings of Jesus; that nothing can be gained by denying the historicity of Jesus; that the Jew should feel free to face and evaluate the teachings of a Galilean Jew of the first century.

That's all there was. There wasn't any more These statements were unfortunate only because intolerant people are what they are and because Dr. Wise has resigned, as the result of their hysterical criticism, from the Five-Million-Dollar Palestine Funds Appeal of which he was the powerful chairman.

People and papers without axes to grind on the sharp stones of dissension and with the ability and desire to arrive at the facts, will feel a high compulsion to bear witness to the truth and spread it. That truth is that Rabbi Wise never asked the Jewish people to "embrace" Christianity nor ever dreamed of doing such a thing. f.f.c.

RABBI WISE QUITS PALESTINE APPEAL

New York, December 25—Louis Lipsky, chairman of the Zionist organization of America, has received the resignation of Rabbi Stephen M. Wise as chairman of the $5,000,000 United Palestine appeal. Mr. Lipsky denied a report that Zionists in Canada had cancelled an invitation to Dr. Wise to address them.

The resignation was offered because of the storm of protest which has arisen among certain Jews against Dr. Wise's utterances in Carnegie Hall last Sunday to the effect that Jews must recognize Jesus was a great moral teacher and that the tenets He taught were essentially the same as those taught by the Jewish elders. Dr. Wise did not offer his resignation, however, without first attacking the condemnation of his statements levelled at him by the Agudath Harabonim (Union of Orthodox Rabbis) whom he charged with having issued an "incredible edict" against him, based upon "hearsay evidence" obtained without "even the hearing of witnesses."

Dr. Wise said he did not wish the resignation construed as an assent on his part to the justice of attacks made [illegible]. He maintained his loyalty [illegible] Zionism, and suggested [illegible] for him "To offer a defence for any word before the bar of Jewish opinion in America."

As an evidence of his faith in the loyalty to Judaism of Rabbi Wise, Nathan Straus, philanthropist, contributed an additional $150,000 to the United Palestine Appeal.

Canadian Zionists are willing to hear Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, despite the attitude which has been taken by some of the rabbi's co-religionists on his sermon.

Leon Goldman, executive secretary of the Zionist Federation of Canada, said that the invitation which had been issued by his organization, asking Rabbi Wise to address the Zionist convention, which opens on January 10 in Montreal, had not been withdrawn.

COLONEL JOSIAH WEDGWOOD TO LECTURE IN AMERICA

New York, December.—Colonel Josiah C. Wedgwood, M.P., D.S.O., member of the British Cabinet under Ramsay MacDonald, and a leading member of the British Labour Party, due in New York December 27, on a lecture tour, will speak in the interests of a rebuilt Jewish Homeland, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, chairman of the $5,000,000 United Palestine Appeal, has just announced.

Colonel Wedgwood is an outstanding leader in British politics and diplomacy. A member of the wealthy and prominent Wedgwood family, head of the pottery industry in England, he has ever since his graduation from the Royal Naval College in 1895, devoted himself to social and human welfare movements. He is the author of several books, contributions to the social sciences.

For many years he has been a champion of Zionism, and made a trip to the United States three years ago to lecture in the interests of the movement. Since 1906 he has been a member of the British Parliament. In the South African war he served as an artillery captain and was decorated four times for gallantry under fire. In the World War he fought on the western front, the Daradanelles, and East Africa until severe wounds caused his retirement to diplomatic work. He was mentioned twice in dispatches and was decorated with the Distinguished Service Order for valorous conduct.

Miss Maxa Nordau, the daughter of Dr. Max Nordau, was reported to be preparing to come to America where she would lecture on the life and works of her father. Miss Nordau is a painter of merit and her work has attracted considerable attention.

WRITER DEALS WITH EARLY ACTIVITIES OF JEWS IN CANADA

A Jew wandered along the banks of the St. Lawrence during the seventeenth century to investigate the claim that the Indians of Canada were the lost tribes of Israel. This was, it is said, the belief of his fellows in Marseilles, France. After living among them for eighteen months, he returned home to report there was nothing in common between the Jew and the Indian. He may be said to be the first white man to enter the St. Lawrence Valley, according to Abram Rhinewine, editor of the Hebrew Journal.

Mr. Rhinewine has finished a history of the Jew in Canada, which will be published in English next year. His authority for the statement that a Jew was among the first white men in the valley of the St. Lawrence is a report to the Church of Scotland written more than one hundred years ago, one copy of which is in the British Museum and another copy in Ottawa.

While making this statement in his history of the Jewish people, on the basis of the report to the Scottish church, Mr. Rhinewine has been able definitely to fix the coming of the Jew to Canada in 1748 under the French regime, when Gardis & Sons, a firm of bankers, founded the Society of Canada and aided financially in the building of Quebec. The Jew was on friendly terms with the French government, suffering none of the persecution meted out to the Huguenot. The banking firm, the history relates, came to the assistance of the French government in its struggle to retain New France, loaning it 2,000,000 francs.

"De Levis, an army commander in Canada under the French regime, was among those of Jewish extraction connected with this country's early history," says Mr. Rhinewine. "Among the first missionaries were the Spanish Maranos, whose name indicates Jewish descent. One of the Recollet friars was Joseph le Caron, of a well-known Jewish family of Spain. The De Levis claimed to be descendants of the tribe of Levi," says Mr. Rhinewine.

"As early as 1748 the British Government was giving consideration to the colonization of Jews in Nova Scotia, but the conditions of the period caused it to delay its plan," continued Mr. Rhinewine. "When the British army conquered Canada, it had in its ranks many Jewish officers. Sir John Schomberg, a Jew, was the commander of a war vessel of the British fleet. Aaron Hart, who came with Wolfe's army, was the first English-speaking settler in Lower Canada.

Mr. Rhinewine claims that the small Jewish group which settled in Canada under the British Government after its conquest, contributed greatly to the development of Canada. Abraham Franks and his son, Jacob, were among the number, as employees of the Hudson Bay Company. John Jacob Astor, founder of the Astor fortunes, was a clerk working under them. Still another document—a report of General Haldimand, also in the Federal archives—describes Ezekiel Solomons of Mackinac, as one of the richest merchants in the territory.

Mr. Rhinewine asserts that a Jew established the first line of vessels trading between Canada and Great Britain. He was Henry Joseph, who settled in Berthier in 1790. His first boat was the Eureta. His son, Jacob Henry Joseph, succeeded him, carrying on the business and adding to his fortune by building the first telegraph system in Canada, establishing the Newfoundland Telegraph Company, and later a cable service with the British Isles. The founders of the Bank of Montreal included David David, a Jew. His services were recognized by the bank, which, Mr. Rhinewine's history states, conferred a life directorship on him.

Mr. Rhinewine gives to a Jew the credit of first developing in Canada electric power from waterfalls. Zigmund Mohr, a German Jew, who was a graduate in electrical engineering from the University of Breslau, organized the Quebec and Levis Electric Company, which supplied power to Quebec City from Montmorency Falls.

"Military records in Ottawa are replete with Jewish names. During the Rebellion of 1837, a number were Loyalists, and were entrusted with offices of importance. Benjamin Hart was a confidential messenger of Sir John Colborne, carrying despatches to York. Jews moved into Upper Canada in 1850, a number of them organizing the congregation which is now Holy Blossom Synagogue."

S. Kronick to Head "Ort" in Canada

That the Jews of Eastern Europe, who as a result of post-war conditions have found themselves facing starvation through the enactment of prejudicial economic legislation, required but the opportunity of helping themselves and they would work out their own problems, was stated by Judge Jacob Panken, New York jurist, who, as president of the Ort Society in America, a world-wide organization for the purpose of providing vocational training and the settlement of Jews on the land, recently made personal observations in Poland, Lithuania and Roumania. At a banquet tendered in his honour by the board of directors of Mount Sinai Hospital on Saturday evening at the Primrose Club. Those present formed themselves into what will become the foundation of the Ort Society in Canada, under the leadership of S. Kronick, and of which Judge Panken will be honourary president. A sum was subscribed as the nucleus of a fund to carry on the work. E. F. Singer presided.

Judge Panken said that while the Jew had gained much in the way of political freedom since the war, he was to a greater extent than ever being deprived of his economic rights through boycotting legislation. Trading co-operatives had sprung into being in Eastern European countries, from which the Jew was excluded, and to make the boycott even more effective, such organizations had been given government support. The Jew was further cut off from a means of livelihood by the establishment of guilds, which had the control of issuing permits to artisans.

This condition of affairs had placed many thousands of European Jews where they were face to face with the prospect of starvation, and was driving their women into the streets. Relief measures through charity would, at best, be but a temporary way of dealing with a condition which was bound to become graver unless a solution for the problem was brought forward. The work of providing a solution had been undertaken by the Ort Society through the establishment of schools for vocational training and land settlement.

Judge Panken was later Saturday evening tendered a public reception in Talmud Torah Hall as the guest of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Mount Sinai Hospital.

SHEA'S

Roy Cummings heads the bill at Shea's Theatre this week. Mr. Cummings has been seen in a number of musical plays. Assisted by Miss Irene Shaw, a girl as attractive as she is clever, he presents himself in "One Afternoon."

In presenting Danny Dare in "A Petite Revue," George Choos has assembled a dancing quintette of unusual merit. The quartette assisting him in "A Petite Revue" are Virginia Watson, Harriet Cole, Carolyn Smith and Eddy Gazart, whose dancing has made the terpsichorean throne totter.

Lewis & Gordon present Bobby Jarvis in the big Broadway hit, "The Gingham Girl," by Daniel Kusell. A little girl from the country who makes cookies and successfully puts ginghams against silks and satins is as pert and pretty and bright as ever.

Miller and Mack are called "The Bing Boys." They are a snappy pair of eccentric singing and dancing funsters.

The rest of the programme includes the Four Clovelly Girls, Miller and Benard, Fred and Hazel Gardner's Maniacs, featuring beautiful pedigreed bull dogs and American terriers, a travelogue and an Aesop fable.

LOEW'S

Recognized as the greatest novelty in the realm of vaudeville entertainment, Loew's "Toyland Midget Revue" comes to the popular Yonge Street Theatre next week, and will undoubtedly create a sensation with its picturesque setting, its company of twenty brilliant artists, and its lavish stage appointment. There are specialty artists and comedians as big as a minute, there are ten colourful and striking scenes, and the action of the piece carries the story into the Land of King Tut, away to Sunny Spain and then to a marvellous Toyland.

Richard Dix will be seen in Loew's feature film presentation, "Woman Handled," which affords the hero ample opportunity of further adding to his laurels in Toronto. Lovely Esther Ralston is his leading lady, and the story is one of those humorous society comedy plots ending up with a flourish in the Golden West.

Jesus the ethical ideals of the prophets were spread throughout Europe. The liberal Jew recognizes that the example of Jesus has been a softening influence on the barbarians of Europe, a great civilizing factor. The liberal Jew rejects as has historic Judaism the notion that Jesus was the Messiah. The Jewish Messianic conception is bound up with the notion of a Messianic age. The liberal Jew rejects the doctrine of original sin, of salvation by faith, of the atoning power of the life of any man. All this theology about Jesus is foreign to Judaism. The liberal Jew has likewise pointed out to the Christian world the historic error which has exacted such a large toll of Jewish lives, that the Jews killed Jesus. The Romans crucified Jesus and not the Jews, and if Christian ministers were to follow the teachings of Jesus, they would cease perpetuating the cruel fiction that the Jews killed him.

We recognize that for many centuries the Jews have suffered agony and torture and martyrdom at the hands of men who bore the crucifix in one hand and the bloody sword in the other. Many a pogrom has been started by Christians in the name of their founder. We recognize that and we can understand how men and women in whose minds the bloody shadows of pogroms still lurk will wince at the mention of the name of Jesus. But we must not confuse the Galilean Jew who lived in the first century, with his followers who failed to apply his teachings. Jesus is no more guilty of the Jewish persecution than the modern Jews are guilty of his crucifixion. If Christians had only lived his teachings, how different history would have been. We Jews to-day can be just to the character of Jesus even though his followers are not just to us, his people. Therein will lie our spirituality. Therein will we vidicate our Jewishness. Therein will we express the Jewish passion for justice.

Sentiments similar to these were uttered by Rabbi Wise in Carnegie Hall. They have been uttered by liberal Jews for sixty and more years. Joseph Jacobs, Hyman G. Enelow, Emil G. Hirsch, Claude Montefiore and recently Joseph Klausner of the Hebrew University have expressed kindred sentiments in publications. For having reiterated these, Wise has been declared a heretic by a group of orthodox rabbis. Stephen Wise has served the Jewish masses for thirty years. He has fought the classes in favour of the masses. He has articulated the aspirations of the silent multitudes of Jews. He has fought their battles and championed their causes. He has merited the immemorial gratitude of world Israel. Is it fair then on the basis of a newspaper report to outlaw him? Is it Jewish justice to cast him overboard without a hearing? Do not agree with Wise! Do not agree with us! That is your privilege. But be as tolerant to us as you want your Christian neighbours to be to you. And above all remember, that we, as you, worship the God of Abraham, of Isaac and of Jacob, the God of all humanity.

LADIES' AUXILIARY ELECTION

The Grand Order of Israel, Ladies' Auxiliary, held their elections at the Labour Lyceum Hall, Sunday afternoon, December 20. Noble master, Paul Albright, presided. J. Markus and Dr. N. Shaul, spoke on the functions of a ladies' auxiliary. Officers: Chairlady, Mrs. B. Gluckstein; vice-chairlady, Mrs. Yetta Sherman; secretary, Miss Mollie Weintraub; treasurer, Mrs. B. Albright; trustees, first, Mrs. Hoffman; second, Mrs. Berger; third, Mrs. Lyons; marshals, Mrs. Gesensway, Miss Flo Weintraub; guardian, Mrs. R. Burke. January 10, the Hamilton Grand Lodge will install the officers.

Joseph Cowen declined re-election of the Executive Committee of the Zionist World Organization and Dr. M. D. Eder was appointed in his place.

Jesus cannot stand for the Jew otherwise than as the symbol of the inhumanity of Christianity. The Church has in practice made the name of Jesus a hated one for Jews. Jewish history is is the record, writ in blood and anguish, of Christian zeal for the sake of Jesus. Jewish experience in the present day is due to the Christian interpretation of the inspiration of Jesus. Standard and authoritative Christianity still upholds a Christ who is the deity of the sword, of wars and rumors of wars, of bloodshed, of persecution, of hatred, of intolerance, of injustice. Witness the appreciation of Jesus preached by the Church to the people of Rumania, Hungary, Ukrainia, Poland, Germany and even America (not altogether excluding Canada).

There are decent and liberal-minded Christians, in increasing number, who endeavour to realize a more just estimate of their Master. They are learning to understand and to follow the beauty of the Jewish teachings of Jesus—though not all his teachings are compatible with, or superior to, the teachings of Judaism, nor was his life superior to that of many teachers of Judaism. These liberal Christians have been helped in their liberalism by the modern Jewish pulpit. Jews should be ready to co-operate with them for a better understanding between Jew and Gentile, for that is the teaching of Judaism. That most of the teachings of Jesus, and most of his life, are fundamentally Jewish gives the basis for a common understanding, and every sincere effort thereto is a service to the Jewish cause. Much of what we may say may be misunderstood, but we are not therefore exempted from the attempt to say it.
